Trust | Life + Design

The Start of a
Lasting Relationship

From the first handshake, we are working to earn your trust in our ability to lead you with any design challenge, large or small. Our goal is to build lasting professional relationships; we see to it that each client's experience is a positive one. The most sincere compliment we receive is a referral. We strive to exceed your expectations so that you tell your family and friends about us.

"True believer that getting to know the client and determining their style and personality is the key to achieving an end result that matches their vision."

Julie Odermatt, Owner

We Listen and Learn

We believe in clear communication and creating a true collaboration with our clients. By listening to your ideas we learn more about what is important to you. We hear you when you express concerns and delight in your individuality. Whether you prefer traditional, transitional, contemporary, or eclectic—your Lead Designer will help you express your unique style. We offer each of our clients a relaxed and comfortable atmosphere in which a positive working relationship is able to bloom and thrive. You can choose to be involved in as much or little of the process as you desire.

Our Philosophy

Whether you are beginning construction on a new home or dreaming of a remodel, our team of design professionals will add value to every phase of your residential or commercial project. We will present you with original, creative, innovative, and smart cost-saving solutions to your design challenges. Our philosophy is that every project is vitally important and every client is key to our success.

How is D³interiors Different?

With over 85 years of collective interior design experience, our team has an extensive knowledge base to guide you through the design process with ease. Our designers hold degrees in multiple disciplines including: Architecture, Art History, Art, and Interior Design. If you are looking for a firm with a design team that offers more than a one-dimensional point of view and approach, then we are the answer to your search.

As Professional and Allied members of the American Society of Interior Design (ASID); our designers are committed to continuing education and on-going professional development. Our staff attends conferences, seminars, and international furniture markets throughout the year to ensure that we remain current on best practice techniques and new industry introductions. Education, experience, examination, talent, and hard work have proven to be a winning combination for our design team—our firm receives multiple ASID project design awards for excellence each year.

Skilled in
All Aspects of Design

Qualified expert opinions and recommendations will be offered at each phase of your design project including: research and planning, design development, design specifications, plumbing fixtures, stone selections, cabinetry design/lay out, countertops, flooring, lighting, door/cabinet hardware, paint/stain, furniture selections/space planning, window treatments and more. Once specifications have been determined, we make periodic visits to your job site as needed to field design oriented installation questions. We guide your project all the way through to completion—making sure that all goals are met with professional attention.

Personal Goal:

"The client has to love it."

Lisa McCoid, Owner

What Should You Expect?

You, the client, are our number one priority. Your Lead Designer will provide exceptional service and ensure optimum project results. We have thousands of design resources at our fingertips, industry knowledge that you can count on, and excellent working relationships with our industry partners. Budgets, schedules, expectations, limitations, everything will be worked out to your satisfaction before any task is undertaken. We are professionals; you should expect nothing less.
